

Plan<sup>360</sup>

Federal acquisition planning is the cornerstone of an efficient and well executed procurement process. Developing a good acquisition plan requires monitoring and tracking critical information, and includes the coordination of many moving parts. Plan<sup>360</sup> allows stakeholders to coordinate the various components of acquisition planning through automation.

Plan<sup>360</sup> assists in requirements management to ensure the needs and expectations of the customer are met. Using Plan<sup>360</sup>'s PALT Assignment, Calculation & Task Management feature allows the acquisition process to be closely managed and controlled to reduce costs and lead time.

Using the Requirements Analysis Dashboard, Plan<sup>360</sup> provides advance notification to PMO and Procurement Staff of requirement timing and funding needs well in advance of need dates, ensuring the funding and resources are in place when needed. Plan<sup>360</sup> also tracks funding to its original source(s), when funding issues occur. Knowing who is responsible is critical to ensuring immediate action is taken to resolve the issue.

Plan<sup>360</sup>'s collaboration feature facilitates coordination among stakeholders involved in the acquisition planning process. This feature allows timely and accurate communications via multiple applications (email, spreadsheets, documents, etc.), document control and a single repository for all acquisition related artifacts.
